

Every voter in the county should turn out on November 2 and smash the slate. If each takes a little crack at it, it will crumble to pieces on that day.

JOHN C. ANDREWS
Everett, Pa.

Candidate for Poor Director on the Democratic Ticket.

Mr. Andrews was born in Monroe Township in 1850, near Mattie and always lived in Monroe Township until this spring when he moved to Everett. He was left an orphan when very young and made his own way in the world, working on farms, and finally when he married Miss Susan Shaffer he bought for himself a home in the shape of a farm near Stephen's Church. Here he raised a family of eleven children, five girls and six boys.

He is a member of the Methodist Church and has served as steward for years and was for 16 years Sunday School superintendent. He always took an active interest in the programs of the school and church and was usually there on time.

Sealer of Weights and Measures Will Soon Commence Inspection

Ira M. Long, sealer of weights and measures for Bedford County, spent several days this week in consultation with the Chief of the Bureau of Standards of Pennsylvania, and with the sealer of weights and measures for the city of Harrisburg.

Mr. Long will commence the inspection of all scales and measures as soon as the equipment is approved by the bureau. Those purchasing scales and measures should be careful that they conform to the law governing the sale of commodities. Buyers of weighing devices should insist on a guarantee from the manufacturer that they will stand the test to their capacity.

It is unlawful in selling any commodity to use any measure unless the same shall have thereon marked in distinct letters and figures their capacity. Measures having two ends are unlawful. It is unlawful to sell dry commodities by liquid measure.

Dry commodities should be sold by the pound and when sold by the bushel, the bushel should consist of the number of pounds fixed by law and wherever sold in the subdivisions of the bushel, the number of pounds shall consist of the fractional part of the number of pounds in a bushel.

Good Treatment For Oily Scalps

Men and women whose hair and scalp are excessively oily have hard work keeping their hair in good condition. Dust and dirt mingle with dandruff, cling to the oily hair and scalp, clog the scalp pores, stifle the hair roots and make proper cleansing almost impossible.

Parisian Sage is an ideal treatment for this trouble. Wash the hair not often than once a week, but use Parisian Sage twice daily, pouring a little into the parted hair and rub briskly right into the scalp with the finger tips. It drives out dandruff, dissolves the excess oil and stimulates the scalp into healthy normal action. This simple remedy can be obtained from F. W. Jordan, Jr., or any drug counter and is very inexpensive.—Adv. 7 Oct 2t.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Interesting Notes From Our Correspondent at National Capital.

Washington, D. C., October 12.—President Wilson has given formal sanction to the plan of the Pan-American conference to extend recognition to the Carranza government in Mexico. And within a few days it is likely that the formal recognition will be communicated by the United States to the new government there headed by Venustiano Carranza. The United States will extend this recognition upon the receipt of official notification that the Latin-American governments concerned have approved the recommendation of their representatives as to the recognition of Carranza. Already three of the governments—Argentina, Brazil and Chile—have approved the action of their representatives.

It is said in some quarters that the decision to recognize Carranza was an absolute reversal of the policy that the administration had in mind at the outset of the Pan-American conference. This change in attitude, it is said, which the administration underwent during the course of these conferences confirms the claim that Carranza won an unconditional victory.

The recognition of the Carranza government by Great Britain and other European nations as the de facto government of Mexico is expected to follow closely upon the heels of Carranza's recognition by the United States and other American republics. It has long been understood that the European nations generally would follow the lead of the United States in the matter. It is known here that representatives of Carranza laid his case before the British ambassador some time ago.

Final consideration is being given by President Wilson to the long note which it is expected will be sent to Great Britain this week, voicing the disapproval by the United States of British interference with American trade through the various orders in council. It is known that the note will be firmly vigorous in its dissent from the British viewpoint; but it is not an academic argument on the principles of the subject. On the contrary, it will be a protest which the American government intends to press constantly in order that modifications of alleged illegal practices may be obtained.

The progress made by the State Department in the last week or ten days in clearing up the most acute of its diplomatic controversies has led high officials to believe that all troublesome international questions will be settled, perhaps before the end of the year. Reviewing the situation, an official said that of all the questions which confronted this government the two most threatening and difficult were the situation in Mexico and the controversy with Germany, both of which are now practically removed from the sphere of serious diplomatic questions. There remain yet the demands upon Great Britain, the treaty with Colombia for the restoration of friendly relations, the establishment of stable government in Haiti, now practically

Stomach Misery Quickly Vanishes

Your money back if you want it is the way in which F. W. Jordan, Jr., the popular druggist is selling Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy.

This is an unusual plan, but Mi-o-na has so much merit and is so almost invariably successful in relieving all forms of indigestion that he runs but little risk in selling under a guarantee of this kind.

Do not be miserable or make your friends miserable with your dyspepsia. Mi-o-na will help you. If it doesn't, tell F. W. Jordan, Jr., that you want your money back and he will cheerfully refund it.

A change for the better will be seen from the first few doses of Mi-o-na and its continued use will soon start you on the road to perfect digestion and enjoyment of food.

Mi-o-na has been so uniformly successful that every box is sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve. What fairer proposition could be made?

F. W. Jordan, Jr., gives his personal guarantee of "money back if Bedfot't it" with every box of Mi-o-na he sells. A guarantee like C. C. & volumes for the merit of Mi-o-na.

under a protectorate of the United States, and the efforts of the United States to obtain protection for Armenian Christians in Turkish territory.

Preliminary meetings of the naval advisory board, headed by Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, have been held here in the Navy Department buildings to perfect its organization and outline plans. Interest surrounds chiefly the question of what the board will be able to do to assist the Navy Department in the perfection of a motor for submarines and aeroplanes. The most favored plan was for the formation of an extensive research laboratory, with an appropriation of $5,000,000 to be asked of Congress. Objections to the plan in legislative quarters, however, are already heard, it being pointed out that that is a lot of money; that the bureau of standards is already equipped to do a large part of the work; that there is in existence an advisory board on aviation in the navy, and that navy yards are up and down the coast where experiments in submarine work and naval structure, etc., can be carried on.

It is now admitted that the Panama Canal will be closed to shipping for the rest of the present year, and it may take a considerably longer time to remove the obstruction caused by the sliding of 10,000,000 cubic yards of earth in the Galliard cut. It is understood that shipping interests have been given information of the nature of the situation, and it is probable that most of the 100 ships now at the Canal awaiting passage will be ordered to their destinations by other routes.

A huge religious parade took place in Washington last Sunday when 48,000 Catholic men and boys, members of the Holy Name societies of Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, marched over Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the White House. Thousands of Washingtonians stood rows deep along both sides of that historic thoroughfare and viewed this imposing and awe-inspiring pageant against blasphemy and profanity.

The Supreme Court of the United States resumed its sittings yesterday after the summer recess. The court followed the ancient custom of meeting and adjourning immediately to go in a body to call on the President and pay respects. The most important cases before the court in which the government is interested are the Harvester Trust case and the Steel Trust case. The Harvester case is set for a re-argument. It was decided in the inferior court in the government's favor, but by a two-to-one divided court. The Steel Trust case, which is against the United States Steel Corporation, was decided against the government by the Federal District Court for New Jersey.

Members of the Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage are not in the least downcast because of the recent announcement made by President Wilson that he is personally in favor of votes for women, and as a citizen and individual will cast his vote this fall in New Jersey to confer upon women there the right to vote. On the other hand those belonging to organizations to foster and extend the movement are jubilant over the stand of the President in favor of woman suffrage, and are confident that a federal constitutional amendment providing for nation-wide suffrage will be enacted at the coming session of Congress.

The Superintendent of the Public Schools of the District of Columbia has offered to the Bureau of Naturalization of the Department of Labor the co-operation of the Washington schools in the national movement inaugurated and now being carried on by the Bureau of Naturalization for the Americanization of the candidates for citizenship throughout the country. The Bureau periodically furnishes the school authorities with the names of foreigners seeking citizenship so that they can be brought into the schools, especially the night session, and get assistance in preparing for citizenship.

The interest of residential and official society in the President's romance is unprecedented. Every item of information is seized upon and discussed over and over again. A private telephone connecting the White House and the residence of Mrs. Norman Galt, the bride-to-be, has recently been installed. Friends of Mrs. Galt whisper that the telephone has been frequently in use, in spite of the fact that the President has spent every spare moment in the company of his fiance since their engagement was announced.

The date of the wedding continues to be a profound secret. Only second in interest to the date of marriage is the question of who will perform the ceremony. That it will take place at Mrs. Galt's residence is regarded as certain.

Plans are already being made for the gifts which will be sent to the coming mistress of the White House, not only from persons and organizations

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excitable; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions.

It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol. Scott & Bowe, Bloomfield, N. J.

tions, but from foreign governments. Although it is known that when the marriage is formally announced to foreign governments there will be an implied request to omit presents, as when the two Wilson girls were married, it is recalled that this request was not heeded then. In fact, several of the Central and South American diplomats have already communicated suggestions to their governments as to fitting presents. These gifts will, of course, be for Mrs. Galt, and not the President, as the United States Constitution prevents his accepting personal gifts from other governments.

How He Got Along
An attorney living on the north side was arrested a few weeks ago charged with violating the motor speed law. When his case was called in city court the next day he asked that it be continued for a week. The arrest caused his wife considerable embarrassment, and she spent most of her morning conversations with her neighbors during the next few days in explaining just how it happened.

On the day of the trial one of the neighbors was sitting on the porch as the attorney returned home.

"Hello, Jack," said the neighbor. "How did you get along in the police court?"

"Fine!" yelled the attorney; then he whispered, "Twenty-five and costs."—Indianapolis News.

Democratic Party Confident of Victory on Its Record.

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

RAILROADS AND RUM.

A certain railroad, says Colliers, announces with pardonable pride that it carried last year on its 26,000 miles of track 183,111,876 passengers, and not one of these passengers was killed in a train accident. "That," says the Canton (O.) Daily News, "is one of the biggest zeroes, one of the mightiest noughts, that the year has to boast of." Another newspaper, the Butler (Pa.) Citizen, writes: "There is no doubt whatever that this condition was rendered possible only by the company insisting on strict sobriety on the part of its employees. With drunken engineers, drunken dispatchers, and drunken conductors, accidents and deaths would have been common. Drinking on the part of employees used to cost their employers a lot of money one way or another. But nowadays it only costs the railroad man his job."

DRUNKENNESS AND DIVORCE.

A home a day, it is stated, was wrecked by divorce last year in Chicago. A Chicago newspaper, investigating as to what extent alcohol is responsible, gives a summary of its findings. Habitual drunkenness, it says, is the charge in 152 of these divorce cases. To this charge others were added in 124 cases. In 99 of these (in which the charge was drunkenness and cruelty), women were the complainants. These two charges appear together more frequently than any other one combination of charges on which divorces were granted. The cases tabulated were tried before judges of the superior court. Others which came before the circuit court were not tabulated.

DECREASE IN WHISKY.

The following figures are from the Wall Street Journal: Production of whisky in Kentucky in January was 1,980,000 gallons, against 6,102,452 gallons in January, 1914; production in Pennsylvania was 1,073,808 gallons in January, against 1,552,445 a year ago, and in Maryland 506,919 gallons, against 918,532. Whisky bottled in bond in January was 691,508 gallons, as compared with 928,187 in January, 1914. The Kentucky decrease for one month was 68 2-3 per cent, the Pennsylvania decrease practically 33 per cent and the Maryland dealers over 40 per cent.

ENLIGHTENED PRACTICE.

The remarkable change in the attitude of the medical profession toward the use of alcohol in the treatment of disease is shown by the records of the Cincinnati hospital, an institution among the greatest of its class in the world and located in one of the whisky centers of the United States. For the year 1914 only seven pints of intoxicants were used for its patients for the entire twelve months, while during six months of 1898, although the capacity of the hospital was considerably less, the records show the use of more than seventeen hundred pints of whisky, beer, wine and gin.

A PROGRESSIVE DISEASE.

Families that serve wine at meals are doing the greatest injustice to their children, for instead of allowing them to drink anything but nonintoxicating drinks they are starting that progressive disease that may end in their ultimate death or disgrace. To see a beautiful young girl drink a cocktail or even a glass of sherry offends health aristocrats, for they know that poison is contained in every drop. The misfortune of all poison-taking lies not only in the always advancing appetite but in the always receding will.—Lillian Russell.

LIQUOR AS HOME WRECKER.

The searchlight is being thrown up on the alcohol question from every angle of vision. Chicago Herald has investigated from the matrimonial angle. To what extent is alcohol responsible for the wrecking of houses by divorce? Answering this question for Chicago—which city, it is said, had a divorce a day last year—the Herald gave a tabulated report. Its findings show among other things that the two charges of habitual drunkenness and cruelty are more frequent in divorce cases than any other one combination of charges.

VODKA AND WAR.

"The greatest single sentence ever uttered for prohibition," Charles Johnson asserts in the American Review of Reviews, came from the lips of M. Kharitonoff, controller of the Russian treasury, speaking before the budget committee of the Russian parliament. It ran thus: "With the war and without vodka Russia is more prosperous than with vodka and without the war."

ALCOHOLIC HARD TO HANDLE.

The alcoholic always does badly under surgery. In the first place it takes a great deal more anesthetic to get him ready for the operation, and that adds to his risk. In the second place, he is much more likely to have diseased kidneys and liver, and that adds yet more to his risk, and thirdly, the risk of insanity and of pneumonia after an operation is greater. The abstinent man and woman stand operation best.—Dr. Howard A. Keily, Johns Hopkins University, noted surgeon.

Dumping and Dumpers

At the close of the war George W. Perkins is so sure European manufacturers will make this country a dumping-ground that he writes a letter to somebody on the subject every day or two. There was a time not long ago when Mr. Perkins' personally organized Harvester Trust did not regard dumping with such terror as its creator now exhibits. Neither did the Street Trust, of which he is a director.

One of the charges against the Harvester Trust in the long-suppressed Townsend report, and afterward urged in the prosecution instituted by President Taft, was that it sold its products cheaper abroad than at home. On the trial of the case the most plausible defense of the trust's unlawful practices was that they were necessary in order to extend its foreign trade—by dumping.

The methods against which Mr. Perkins now protests were adopted by his trust in another field. Borrowing money from banks at 3 or 4 per cent., it dumped these funds upon farmers to whom it extended credit at from 6 to 10 per cent. Dumping abroad and dumping at home are all right, it appears, if the dumper chances to be an American trust-builder hiding behind favor and privilege, but the thought of foreign dumping in this country is almost as hideous as war itself.

Such foreign dumping as Mr. Perkins sees is remote and perhaps imaginary. It depends upon the end of hostilities. When will that be? It presupposes ability and willingness on the part of nations exhausted physically and financially to sell goods here at less than cost. How real is that danger?

A more imminent peril is that under the influence of Mr. Perkins and his fellows the people of the United States may in a moment of excitement or alarm dump themselves once more into the lap of monopoly and extortion.

DINNER, DANCE AND BALL GOWNS

With Timely Suggestions for All Saints' Eve

Panniers Favored Details

New York, October 13, 1915. Afternoon frocks for more dressy occasions are quaint and becoming to a degree; many of them look as if they might have been worn by grande dames of the period just following the French Revolution, with perhaps a little added dignity.

The taffetas, failles, and velvets favored for these gowns lend themselves particularly well to the draperies now in vogue, panniers, poufs, and the loose panels of Watteau's figures.

The tang of winter in the air recalls us all to the dignity of formal dinners, dances, teas, and like occasions, with their respective demands for more formal frocks than those we have enjoyed all summer, our simple wash and taffeta models, so becoming and youthful-looking.

Empire Pantalette Costume

This winter, however, the added formality consists merely of the addition of a few quaint ruffles, and draperies that will appeal to most of us pleasingly.

Overskirts Growing in Popularity
Many of the imported gowns show the apron overskirt, usually made of chiffon, embroidered, or heavily beaded, combined with straight full skirts, paneled with velvet, on cloth and silk frocks. Some of these models show a profusion of trimming; others are simplicity and dignity itself, relying entirely on the cut and color combination for effect.

Chiffon as a Trimming

Many bolero effects are noticed on winter frocks and costume blouses, as corsage trimmings. Chiffon heavily soutache, and chiffon veillings play important parts in the scheme of trimmings. Many of the new blouses are made of lace or net, banded by several rows of moire ribbon, at the line of the bust, veiled by the chiffon.

Dinner, Dance, and Ball Gowns
Dinner and ball frocks are extremely dainty and quaint this winter. The pannier, with its graceful draperies over the hips, is often accompanied by a loose hanging panel, and hung contrasting under-skirts of figured or flowered taffeta, or one of the charming embroidered brocades of the moment, in silver or gold. Now and then one sees a ball or dinner gown of black satin, heavily trimmed with sparkling jet; there are many veiled models, too; taffetas, failles, and satins, veiled with beaded nets or chiffons. Gray is nearly as popular a shade for this type of frock as for daytime wear; often it is combined with black lace over white most effectively. Much velvet is used, combined with satin, taffeta, or faille, or as bandings for the cloth frocks which are quite popular.

The Day of the Dance Not Passed

Dancing is still much in favor. Some charmingly capricious frocks have been designed this winter especially for the maid or matron who dances. Many of these are delightfully youthful and frivolous; one especially dainty creation has a skirt made entirely of ribbon, with net bodice, veiling a band of the ribbon at the bustline. Net, and the daintily colored bordered chiffons, are much used for these gowns; also the quaintly patterned taffetas and brocades, so reminiscent of days gone by. The nets and chiffons are usually hung over slips of satin or taffeta, or looped up, pannier fashion, over a silver or gold brocaded satin underskirt.

The Fancy Dress Costume

There are times when it is pleasant to dispense with the frock especially designed for certain purposes, and to let Fancy take her own way, and garb us as she will, in some particularly fantastic creation all her own. All Saints' Eve, or Hallowe'en, is one of the times. The maid who looks for her fate in the candle's flame, and the man who frivols in fantastic garb, are at perfect liberty to enjoy this weird evening in whatever costume pleases them most. There is no more demure, pleasing costume for the maid than this quaint Empire frock with its frilled pantalettes, its crescent and star-decked bonnet, and its fuzzy-tailed black cats, world-wide omens of good luck and witches' magic, bordering its short, full skirt. The man may wear a Pierrot costume; it has always been a favorite and loses none of its charm this winter.

Pierrot Costume for Man or Woman

Hunting Time

The toiling and the sweating of the Summer's at an end; the swell gazooks have all vanished in town their time to spend.

There's a look of expectation on the rural hunter's phiz, As shotguns boom and thunder and rifle bullets whizz!

The trolling and the angling, and the gigging all are past. Soon in snow drifts we'll wallow, piled up by Winter's blast.

But now the woods are lively, the trees are bright and gay,

The mast is lying on the ground; the partridge works all day.

The gray squirrel swipes the farmer's corn—the good for nothing bub!

But, just the same, we're glad he's here, for hunting time has come!

The dogs keep up a yowling. They know full well what's what, When, coming home from trailing, they smell what's in the pot.

There's coon tracks on the sand bars, in the mud along the streams, And here and there are other tracks, that waken golden dreams.

There's rabbit hair in hollow trees; there's rings around the sun— Which show us all that Summer o'er, and hunting time has come!

—Sports Afield.

Insect Feigns Death.

The deathwatch beetle has the invariable habit of feigning death when seized or disturbed. The simulation is so persistent that when immersed in water, or even in alcohol, the insect remains perfectly immovable, and will allow itself to be burned alive rather than betray itself. The tick made by the deathwatch resembles that made by tapping the finger nail upon the table—so much so that the beetle can be easily recognized by the tick it makes.

FUSION COMPLETE

There is much satisfaction to know that fusion has been secured this year without any defections in the least. Both Democratic and Washington party officers work in entire harmony and intend to continue so to work.

The feeling for fusion is the most universal this year of any year in which it was accomplished and if each and every party worker and party voter does his share the result is evident.

Every Democrat ought to turn out and register his vote against the greatest and most flagrant gang rule ever pulled off in the face of the voters of Bedford County. The opposition boasts of a farmers' candidate for Treasurer, when everyone knows that his nomination was one by the bosses and the slate makers, that they dumped J. M. Kennell overboard, who is also a farmer, and Mr. Clapper who is also a farmer and pulled over the votes for Longenecker, and as one man says who belongs to the inner circle, "It was done over night."

If the voters would have wanted a farmer, they could have taken Mr. Kennell. He deserves more credit for successful farming than Mr. Longenecker. Kennell lives in the foot hills of the Alleghenies below Hyndman, where it requires tact and skill to eke out an existence and he has made a success of it, while Longenecker lives in the magnificent country of Morrison's Cove where things grow upon planting and where cattle may graze at ease the year round. He is visited by God's grace in being planted where it requires no great energy to feed his fine herds nor raise his acres of grain and hay. No finer stream of water ever trickled down a valley than the one which furnishes Mr. Longenecker with his daily draft. He lives in the garden spot of this country and has riches galore in farm lands, herds and stocks, while James M. Kennell must tug away, as well as Mr. Clapper, with the necessities of life only, only because the bosses did not want either for their candidate for County Treasurer. Done "over night." Why stand for such railroading? Other illustrious men were in the running for this office who have stood by the party through all the campaigns and have never flinched. C. D. Biode, S. A. Cessna, Thomas Eichelberger, all illustrious and hard party workers, yet they were done "over night." Time, money and ability were expended in the campaign, yet it was all upset "over night." Is that free America? Now is the time to scotch that method.

You'll buy an extra gallon this year. There's $5 or $6 for paint and labor. You think you won't, but you will; you can't stretch paint.

It is always so; the longer you wait, the more paint and wages. Besides what paint is for. What is it for?

JUDGESHIP

Editorial From a Republican News paper of Huntingdon County on the Judgeship.

The contest for the President Judgeship of the Court of Common Pleas for this district will now be waged with vigor until the election in November.

The greatest attention will be given by the supporters of Judge Woods to the license question. They claim credit for him for making dry territory for this Judicial District, and that in order to have it continue as dry territory it is necessary to re-elect him.

As a matter of fact, Judge Woods is only entitled to a part of the credit for making this Judicial District dry. The largest measure of credit is due to the determined temperance voters and tax payers who had made up their minds to put the liquor traffic out of business. In Mifflin, Bedford and Huntingdon Counties the result was achieved in practically the same way. The temperance voters elect Associate Judges for the express purpose of putting the saloons out of business in their counties, and they put the saloons out of business.

The court of Huntingdon refused the licenses of the Huntingdon bar rooms and it gave one to the saloon at Orbisonia, so that it did business for several months during which the Huntingdon bars were closed.

The Bedford licenses were refused by the court and a summer license was granted to the Bedford Springs Hotel. This is a matter for explanation.

The saloons of this district were put out of business by the voters of the people as expressed in the election of Associate Judges.

The election of Associate Judges gave the people a chance to pass upon the liquor question. A sort of indirect but effective Local Option election, and they have passed upon it.

The temperance forces were victorious in all three counties by large majorities.

We do not believe that there will ever be liquor licenses granted in these counties again.

It will be a hopeless job for any saloon keeper to undertake to try for a license in the face of the public sentiment of these counties. No upright judge will ever undertake to give liquor licenses in the face of such a preponderance of opinion on this question.

It is one of the lamentable facts about this liquor question being settled in the courts that it brings the choice down to a question as to how the candidate stands on this one question.

The fitness of the candidates as to legal ability has little or no bearing on the decision of many voters.

As to this Judicial District the liquor question should be regarded as settled. In Huntingdon County we have elected two Associate Judges for the express purpose of making and keeping Huntingdon County dry. They are honorable men and they will keep faith with the people of the county; they will keep it dry. That is their job and there has not been any hints that they will go back on it.

This fact ought to allow Huntingdon County voters to think of some other things. We have too high a tax rate. A part of that rate is chargeable to the court. There are too many cases, to many retrials, too many juries and too much law altogether. We have experienced something new in Huntingdon County this year. We have only paid eight mills tax, not very many years ago it was 12 mills. Fifty per cent more than a year ago the court will aid this and be still further decreased.

There ought to travel with dispatch and not with leaden feet.

We believe that Thomas F. Bailey will be just as satisfactory to the temperance people of this district as Judge Woods has been and that the court will not bear so heavy upon the tax payers' pockets. As it is now Huntingdon County, Bedford County and Mifflin County are dry territory. Let us now see that we have the highest possible legal talent on the bench.

We believe that Thomas Fisher Bailey ought to be the choice of every voter in Huntingdon County.—The Twice-a-Week Republican, Mt. Union, Pa.

PRESBYTERY OF HUNTINGDON IN BEDFORD

The Presbytery of Huntingdon met in the Presbyterian Church at 7:30 Monday evening, October 5, and was in session till 9 p. m. the next day.

Presbytery was opened with a splendid sermon, from 2 Thes. 5: 21, the subject being "Prove all things," by the moderator, Rev. W. C. Thompson of Reedsburg. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. W. P. Van Tries of Altoona, and prayer offered by Rev. R. S. Dickson of Lewistown. After the Presbytery was constituted with prayer, the roll was called.

Tuesday morning—Presbytery convened at 8:30. A half an hour devotional service was led by the pastor of the church (Dr. Bishara), who made a brief address on the "Apostolic Spirit of Prayer," urging Presbytery to be in the attitude of prayer throughout the meeting.

The first business session began at about 9 o'clock, and was opened with prayer by the new moderator, Rev. W. M. Hyde. The minutes of Monday night's session were read and approved. After the treasurer's report, the moderator announced the names of the men he had appointed to be on the standing committees of Bills and Overtures, Judicial, Minutes of Synod and General Assembly, Narratives, Finance, and Leave of Absence. After the reports of the committees on installation were heard, Rev. C. G. Spessard was received by letter from the Allegheny Conference of the United Brethren Church, who was duly examined and enrolled. Rev. Spessard accepted a call from the congregations of Peru and Upper Tuscarora, and arrangements were made for his installation. Also Rev. E. L. Kennedy accepted a call from the churches of Shirleysburg and Orbisonia, and Rev. R. W. Illingworth, a former pastor of Bedford, accepted a call from the churches of Burnham and Little Valley. Presbytery endorsed Dr. H. H. Stiles' request that the churches of Altoona extend an invitation to the Synod of Pennsylvania to meet in that city one year hence. Several ministers and elders were elected to the Synod, among whom was J. C. Russell, Esq., of Bedford.

Tuesday Afternoon—Presbytery convened in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, and after prayer, the time was appointed for the installation of Revs. Illingworth and Spessard, after which the report of the committee on education was read, indicating that seven young men are preparing for the ministry under care of the Presbytery.

C. H. Welch of Mount Union was duly licensed as local evangelist after being examined as to his piety, knowledge of scripture and ability to teach, and Louis V. Barber was likewise licensed to preach the gospel.

Then came the report of the Committee on Systematic Beneficence, which was duly presented by Hon. John Hamilton.

The report of the Committee on Temperance was favorable, the contributions of the year being $2,576.

And so were the reports of the Committees on Finance, Ministerial Relief and Sustentation, and Foreign Missions, the contributions of the year to this last one amounting to $14,028, which is a gain on last year.

More interest in, and work for missions were strongly urged in several recommendations which were unanimously adopted.

At this point a very strange and interesting incident took place. Philipsburg Church was permitted—if favorable and acceptable to the pastor—to raise the salary from $1,200 and manse to $1,500 and manse, Rev. R. P. Miller acquiescing modestly and resignedly.

Several other reports were made before Presbytery took recess until 7 p. m.

Tuesday Evening—Presbytery was opened with prayer. The Presbytery accepted the invitation of the church of Milroy for the April meeting.

Then Rev. W. P. Van Tries presented a memorial paper on the life of Rev. Richard Crittenden, and Rev. Edward A. Snook presented another on the life of Rev. Taylor F. Bailey, M. D.

A popular meeting was held in the interest of Presbyterian missions and evangelism, in which Revs. W. Potter, Van Tries and William H. Orr made appropriate addresses.

At the close of the meeting of Presbytery a resolution of thanks was offered by Rev. Samuel Moody

"to the trustees for the use of their building; to the members of the church, especially to the ladies, for their kind hospitality; to the pastor, Rev. K. A. Bishara, Ph. D., and the elders for the successful manner in which the program had been carried out; and to all who had in any way helped to make the meeting a success." The resolution was adopted by a rising vote.

Special mention should be made in concluding, of the committee on arrangements, composed of Dr. Statler, Arthur Russell and John Ellis. The church members also with deep appreciation the excellent services of Professor Melroy and his boys who met the bishops and elders of Presbytery, welcoming them to our town, and taking them to the assigned places of entertainment.

The meeting was a good success, and the visitors had a great deal to say about the beauty and attractiveness of the church in which they held their meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Longenecker of Woodbury were guests of H. E. Laher and family Saturday.

Mrs. John Jones and son Jack of Kansas came to Everett Friday to visit Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gump, Sr.

Mrs. Rev. Kieffer and little daughter Elizabeth of Schuylkill are guests of Mrs. A. H. Whetstone.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Howard and daughter, Miss Margaret, left Wednesday morning for Hagerstown.

Jacob Baker of Snake Spring is in attendance at the fair in Hagerstown this week.

Mrs. A. C. Whetstone gave a birthday party in honor of her three-year-old son Jack to about 20 of his little friends and their mothers Wednesday afternoon.

Good Democrats turn out at the election. Can we count on you?

If you are big league material the scouts are pretty apt to hear about you.—Atchison Globe.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—At a vestry meeting of the Market Square church Gail Sargent listened to a discussion about the sale of the church tenement to Edward E. Allison, local traction king, and when asked her opinion of the church by Rev. Smith Boyd, says it is apparently a lucrative business enterprise.

the weak and the poor and the pitifully crippled of soul; and a great wave of shame came to him; shame, and thankfulness, too!

He walked slowly up to the platform, and, turning to that reddened sunlight which bathed his upturned face as if with a benediction, he said, in a voice which, in its new sweetness of vibration, stirred even the murk depths of these, the numb:

"Let us pray."

CHAPTER XVI.

The Creed of Gail.

Who was that tall, severely correct gentleman waiting at the station, with a bunch of violets in his hand, and the light in his countenance which was never on sea or land? It was Gerald Fosland, and he astonished all beholders by his extraordinary conduct.

As the beautiful Arly stepped through the gates, he advanced with an entirely unrepressed smile, springing from the balls of his feet with a buoyancy too active to be quite in good form. He took Arly's hand in his, but he did not bend over it with his customary courteous gallantry. Instead, he drew her slightly towards him, with a firm and deliberate movement, and, bending his head sidewise under the brim of her hat, kissed her; kissed her on the lips!

750 COKE OVENS TO OPEN

Frick Company Expects to Run
Nearly at Capacity.

Uniontown, Pa., October 10.—Announcement was made today by the H. C. Frick Company that because of the heavy demand for steel 500 new coke ovens were fired last week and that this week 750 additional ovens will be put in operation and that the company will then be running at 100 per cent. of capacity.

One plant that has been idle for more than two years will resume to-morrow. As many of labor is reported, though the highest wage scale ever paid coke workers is in effect.

To Appreciate Colors.

Only a few of us at present have been great colorists. A very grettable reason that we don't divinely see colors is that we are the masters of color. Beer is a crucial and decisive factor in everyone's taste. It is a close and very close relation that a man can have to the sure of the highest appreciation of colors as the world's colors. The spectrum is in the division of the composition of rays of light.

Sizing Up By.

"Which side of the use do you ink the baby rest less mort?" asked young P. "Well," answered P., "I can't see him like the rest of the world. Home

Immediately thereafter he gave a dignified welcome to Gail, and with Arly's arm clutched tightly in his own, he then disappeared. As they walked rapidly away, Arly looked up at him in bewilderment; then she suddenly hugged herself closer to him with a jerk. As they went out through the carriage entrance, she skipped.

It was good to see Allison, big, strong, forceful, typical of the city and its mighty deeds. His eye had lighted with something more than pleasure as Gail stepped out through the gates of the station; something so infinitely more than pleasure that her eyes dropped, and her hand trembled as she felt that same old warm thrill of his clasp. He was so overwhelming in his physical dominance. He took immediate possession of her, standing by while she greeted her uncle and aunt and other friends, and beaming with justifiably proud proprietorship. Gail had laughed as she recognized that attitude. Allison was really a big man, one born to command, to sway things, to move and shift and rearrange great forces; and that, of course, was his manner in everything. She flushed each time she looked in his direction; for he never removed his gaze from her; bold, confident, supreme. When a man like that is kind and gentle and considerate, when he is tender and thoughtful and full of devotion, he is a big man indeed!

Rev. Smith Boyd wasted not a minute in purposeless hesitation or idle preliminary conversation.

"Gail!" he said, in a voice which chimed of all the love songs ever written, which vibrated with all the love passion ever breathed, which pleaded with the love appeal of all the dominant forces since creation. Gail had resumed her seat on the end of the piano bench, and now he reached down and took her hand, and held it, unresisting. She was weak and limp, and she averted her eyes from the burning gaze which beamed down on her. Her breath was fluttering, and the hand which lay in her lap was cold and trembling. "Gail, I love you!" He bent his head and kissed her hand. The touch was fire, and she felt her blood leap to it. "Gail, dear," and his voice was like the suppressed crescendo of a tremendous organ flute; "I come to you with the love of a man. I come to you with the love of one inspired to do great deeds, not just to lay them at your feet, but because you are in the world!" He bent lower, and tried to gaze into the brown eyes under those fluttering lashes. He held her hand more tightly to him, clasped it to his breast, oppressed her with the tremendous desire of his whole being to draw her to him, and hold her close, as one and a part of him for all time to come, mingling and merging them into one ecstatic harmony. "Gail! Oh, Gail, Gail!"

There was a cry in that repetition of her name, almost an anguish. She stole an upward glance at him, her face pale, her beautiful lips half parted, and in her depthless brown eyes, alive now with a new light which had been born within her, there was no forbiddance, though she dropped them hastily, and bent her head still lower. She had made herself an eternal part of him just then, had he but seized upon that unspoken assent, and taken her in his arms, and breathed to her of the love of man for woman, the love that never dies nor wavers nor falters, so long as the human race shall endure.

He bent still closer to her, so that he all but enfolded her. His warm breath was upon her cheek. The sympathy which was between them bridged the narrow chasm of air, and enveloped them in an ethereal flame which coursed them from head to foot, and had already nigh welded them into one.

"I need you, Gail!" he told her. "I need you to be my wife, my sweetheart, my companion. I need you to go with me through life, to walk hand in hand with me about the greatest work in the world, the redemption of the fallen and helpless, into whose lives we may shed some of the beauty which blossoms in our own."

There was a low cry from Gail, a cry which was half a sob, which came with a sharp intake of the breath, and carried with it pain and sorrow and protest. She had been so happy, in what she fancied to be the near fulfillment of the promptings which had grown so strong within her. No surge of emotion like this had ever swept over her; no such wave of yearning had ever carried her impetuously up and out of herself as this had done. It had been the ecstatic answer to all her dreams, the ripe and rich and perfect completion of every longing within her; yet, in the very midst of it had come a word which broke the magic thrall; a thought which had torn the fairy web like a rude storm from out the icy north; a devouring genie which, dark and frightening, advanced to destroy all the happiness which might follow this first inrushing commingling of these two perfectly correlated elements!

"I can't!" she breathed, but she did not withdraw her hand from his clasp. She could not! It was as if these two palms had welded together, and had become parts of one and the same organism. The piano bench farthest removed from the rector, and directed the most of her attention to Allison, who was less disconcerting. Allison, casting an occasional glance at the intense young rector, seemed preoccupied tonight; and Mrs. Helen Davies, pausing to take her sister Grace with her, walked up the stairs with a forefinger tapping at her well-shaped chin. She seemed to have reversed places with her sister tonight, for Mrs. Sargent was supremely happy, while Helen Davies was doing the family worrying.

She could have wished Allison adieu had she waited a very few minutes. He was a man who had spent a lifetime in linking two and two together, and he abided unwaveringly by his deductions. There was no mistaking the nature of the change which was so a parent in Rev. Smith Boyd; but Allison, after careful thought on the matter, was able to take a comparative early departure.

"I'll see you tomorrow, Gail," he served finally. Rising, he crossed where she sat, and, reaching into his lap, he took both her hands. His arms swing from his clasp, and looking down into her eyes with a strong regard, he gave her hands an easy pressure, which sent for a moment a surge of heat through her hand even now, a surge color over her face.

Rev. Smith Boyd, blazing down at that scene, suddenly felt something crushing under his hand. It was the light runner board of the music rack, and three hairs, which had lain in placid place at the crown of his head, suddenly popped erect. Ten thousand years before, had these three been so grouped, Allison would have felt a stone ax on the back of his neck, but as it was he passed out unmolested, nodding carelessly to the young rector, and bestowing on Gail a parting look which was the perfection of easy assurance.

Rev. Smith Boyd wasted not a minute in purposeless hesitation or idle preliminary conversation.

"Gail, dear, that is an obstacle which will melt away. There was a time when I felt as you do. The time will come when you, too, will change."

"You don't understand," she gently told him. "I believe in God the Father; the maker of my conscience, friend and my father. I am in doubt, no, quandary, no struggle because I have never held a serious dispute over any topic but one!"

He drew a chair before her, and took her hand again, but this time he patted it between his own as if it were a child's.

"Gail, dear, that is an obstacle which will melt away. There was a time when I felt as you do. The time will come when you, too, will change."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course, the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 17.

ELISHA HEALS NAAMAN THE SYRIAN.

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 5:1-10, 14.
GOLDEN TEXT—I am Jehovah that healest thee.—Ex. 15:26.

Read carefully the intervening Scripture following last Sunday's lesson to get the account of Elisha's activities. There is recorded the story of the poisoned fountain (2:19-22). The "hoodlum" gang (vv. 23, 24) which is a story for boys. Note: Elisha had nothing to do with the bears, nor does the record say that the bears killed the boys. Next the story of the Widow's oil (4:1-7). Finally, the suggestive stories of the Shunammite woman (vv. 8-37), and the feeding of the prophets and the people (vv. 38-44).

Now we come to Elisha's most famous experience, that with Naaman of Damascus. This city is reputed to be the oldest in the world and is situated about 100 miles (air line) northeast of Samaria. This event probably occurred between 804 and 894 B. C.

I. A Ministry in the Home, vv. 1-7. Naaman had all that heart could wish, seemingly. Exalted, rich, a great man, honorable and successful in his undertakings, "but he was a leper." As such he is a type of the sinner. Leprosy begins practically in secret, is transmissible, may be ameliorated, but cannot be cured by man. In his home was one who knew the Lord, one who observed, who loved as well as served. This maid was a true servant, for she showed her master how to be rid of his malady. For all of his wealth Naaman was not happy. He knew and others would soon know his condition. His wife could not help him, and did not take the maid's message to him. Perhaps she did not rightly value it. But there was co-operation in that household evidently, for "one went in and told his lord" (v. 4). There was also co-operation between the home and the government, for the king of Syria sent a letter to the king of Israel (v. 5). The strength of any nation is in proportion to the strength, unity and loyalty of its homes. It is also in proportion to the care and interest which that government takes in its homes.

II. A Ministering Prophet (vv. 8-14). The king of Syria thought he could buy everything, including the desired cure (vv. 5, 6). His letter brought great consternation to Israel's king, probably Jehoram. The value of the gifts presented, perhaps over $100,000, revealed the urgency of the case. But there was one in Israel who was not disturbed, for he knew more fully the power of Jehovah. Elisha is a type of Christ who offers not only to all lepers but to every unfortunate one "rest" (Matt. 11:28-30). Elisha responded to the need of the nation (v. 8), as well as to the need of Naaman the leper, when he volunteered to become the champion of Jehovah (v. 7).

The prince came, however, filled with a sense of his importance and his pride stood in the way of his relief, hence the manner of Elisha's treatment. Waiting thus before the prophet's door Naaman is a type of the great of this earth who shall yet bow before God's people (Isa. 60:1-3) and before his Son (Phil. 2:19). By human arguments Naaman was right (v. 12) and his rage was justified, but he must learn that as a suppliant he cannot dictate means nor methods.

The rich and cultured sinner cannot select his own way of healing, nor be treated any differently than the poor and the ignorant. The river Jordan is a type of the judgment on sin. Sin must be judged by confession (Rom. 15:9, 18). Sin must be renounced before we can be cleansed (I Cor. 11:31; I John 1:9). It was a slow, a patient, a public process through which Naaman must pass, but such had been the development of leprosy in his life. God had judged sin on Calvary (Rom. 8:3; II Cor. 5:21; Gal. 1:13) and as Naaman went down in the Jordan he took, in figure, the sinner's place, even as Jesus later took that place for us, (Matt. 3:13-15). Though inclined to act the fool, yet Naaman wisely hearkened to his servant (v. 13) and obeyed the command of the prophet.

His cure came because he obeyed Jehovah: (a) He heard of one who could cure (v. 3); (b) he believed (v. 4); (c) he forsook his own thoughts (v. 11); (d) he accepted God's thoughts and methods (vv. 13, 14); (e) he took the sinner's place (vv. 10, 14); (f) he became clean after his obedience (vv. 14, 15).

There is evidence of a great moral effect in the life of Naaman following this experience (vv. 15-19).

He became an open rejector of the heathen gods and a professed follower of Jehovah when he returned to Damascus.

As such he became the ministering prince.

III. The Ministering Prince. (1) By public profession (see Rom. 10:9, 10; Matt. 10:32) (2) By a peculiar request which became a great object lesson in Damascus; (3) By a new purpose of heart which would change his future course.

at our store

For the benefit of our many customers and users of De Laval Cream Separators we have established a De Laval Service Day.

On this date we shall be glad to have any De Laval user bring his complete separator to our store for a thorough and careful inspection and adjustment, which will be made free of charge. Should any parts, due to unusual wear or accident, need to be replaced, this will be done, the only charge being for the price of the new parts used. No charge will be made for the service.

A De Laval service man will be with us to assist with this work. Bring in your De Laval Separator that day and receive the benefit of his advice on the care and operation of the machine, as well as the free service. It is our wish, and that of the De Laval Company, that every user of a De Laval Separator get the maximum of efficiency at the minimum of cost, and we therefore urge you to avail yourself of this free and useful service.

Andrew Dodson has been in the Sheriff's office for fourteen years. Are you going to give him a life job? Can't another person fill the place as well? David W. Prosser is a soldier, a thorough Christian, a friend of the poor and has sympathy for all the unfortunate. He was elected to be Treasurer several years ago but one of the gang went down on Broad Top and counted him out. He made a confession on his death bed to his minister and asked him to go to Mr. Prosser and tell him after he was dead. Don't you think a man once honored by the people should be honored again in the face of such facts?
